

Advising Guidelines for Students Entering an NWIC Bachelor's Program at the Junior Level

These guidelines are to be used when advising students who are entering a bachelor's programs at the junior level whether they transferred from another college or completed an associate's degree at NWIC. The guidelines describe how to determine which students to advise to enroll in CSOV 300, which students to advise to enroll in an upper-division course rather than CSOV 300, and which students to refer to the Chair of the Native Studies Leadership department for further advising. Consult the course equivalency list to determine which courses are equivalent to CSOV 101, which may be courses at another college or other courses taught at NWIC.

In all other cases, the student is to be referred to the Chair of the Native Studies Leadership department (or a delegate who has been identified by the chair) for further advising.

The Chair of the Native Studies Leadership department (or delegate) makes an advising determination and then is to email the student and the registrar describing the advising decision (i.e., enroll in CSOV 300 or an upper-division elective) in order to document the decision as it relates to meeting graduation requirements.
